

Your Result

Below results will be determined by the choice of answers given in the Q&A.

Asthma Severity

A4: Severe

Asthma Control

A3: Poorly Controlled

You reported that your asthma is poorly controlled. Using a rescue inhaler several times per day, taking oral steroids everyday or every other day, having been to the hospital or receiving emergency care at least 1 time in the past 12 months, or waking up at least 4 times per week because of your asthma symptoms are signs of asthma that is very poorly controlled.

Proper inhaler use and taking your medication regularly are the key to helping control your asthma. HOWEVER, some asthma patients may have an underlying factor that's impacting their ability to control their asthma. It could be a type of asthma called severe asthma. Speak to the Breathe EaSY nurse to learn more.

Emotional Impact

A3: High impact

Your asthma seems to have had a high impact on your emotional well-being.

Daily Life Impact

A3: High

The test results are a representation of the level of your asthma based on the answers provided.
